Specification

Applicant is reminded of the proper language and format for an abstract of the disclosure.

The abstract should be in narrative form and generally limited to a single paragraph on a separate sheet within the range of 50 to 150 words. It is important that the abstract not exceed 150 words in length since the space provided for the abstract on the computer tape used by the printer is limited. The form and legal phraseology often used in patent claims, such as "means" and "said," should be avoided. The abstract should describe the disclosure sufficiently to assist readers in deciding whether there is a need for consulting the full patent text for details.

The language should be clear and concise and should not repeat information given in the title. It should avoid using phrases which can be implied, such as, "The disclosure concerns," "The disclosure defined by this invention," "The disclosure describes," etc.

(Namely, it is improper to use the term "invention" in the abstract.)

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

Claims 1-15 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention. For claims 1 and 17, it is unclear whether or not the drawer is to be claimed in combination with the interlock. For example, in the preamble of claim 1, only the interlock is claimed ("interlock for a drawer"); however, in the body of the claim the interlock is positively claimed in combination with the drawer (e.g. "an engagement member (of the interlock) attached to said drawer"). For claim 8, it is unclear whether or not the drawer slide member and cabinet are to be claimed in combination with the interlock. (They are not positively claimed in claim 1.) For claim 14, it is unclear whether or not the drawer slide is to be claimed in combination with the interlock.

Double Patenting

A rejection based on double patenting of the "same invention" type finds its support in the language of 35 U.S.C. 101 which states that "whoever invents or discovers any new and useful process ... may obtain a patent therefor ..." (Emphasis added). Thus, the term "same invention," in this context, means an invention drawn to identical subject matter. See Miller v. Eagle Mfg. Co., 151 U.S. 186 (1894); In re Ockert, 245 F.2d 467, 114 USPQ 330 (CCPA 1957); and In re Vogel, 422 F.2d 438, 164 USPQ 619 (CCPA 1970).

A statutory type (35 U.S.C. 101) double patenting rejection can be overcome by canceling or amending the conflicting claims so they are no longer coextensive in scope. The filing of a terminal disclaimer cannot overcome a double patenting rejection based upon 35 U.S.C. 101.

Claims 1-20 are provisionally rejected under 35 U.S.C. 101 as claiming the same invention as that of claims 1-20 of copending Application No. 11/455,454. This is a provisional double patenting rejection since the conflicting claims have not in fact been patented.

The nonstatutory double patenting rejection is based on a judicially created doctrine grounded in public policy (a policy reflected in the statute) so as to prevent the unjustified or improper timewise extension of the "right to exclude" granted by a patent and to prevent possible harassment by multiple assignees. A nonstatutory obviousness-type double patenting rejection is appropriate where the conflicting claims are not identical, but at least one examined application claim is not patentably distinct from the reference claim(s) because the examined application claim is either anticipated by, or would have been obvious over, the reference claim(s). See, e.g., In re Berg, 140 F.3d 1428, 46 USPQ2d 1226 (Fed. Cir. 1998); In re Goodman, 11 F.3d 1046, 29 USPQ2d 2010 (Fed. Cir. 1993); In re Longi, 759 F.2d 887, 225 USPQ 645 (Fed. Cir. 1985); In re Van Ornum, 686 F.2d 937, 214 USPQ 761 (CCPA 1982); In re Vogel, 422 F.2d 438, 164 USPQ 619 (CCPA 1970); and In re Thorington, 418 F.2d 528, 163 USPQ 644 (CCPA 1969).

A timely filed terminal disclaimer in compliance with 37 CFR 1.321(c) or 1.321(d) may be used to overcome an actual or provisional rejection based on a nonstatutory double patenting ground provided the conflicting application or patent either is shown to be commonly owned with this application, or claims an invention made as a result of activities undertaken within the scope of a joint research agreement.

Effective January 1, 1994, a registered attorney or agent of record may sign a terminal disclaimer. A terminal disclaimer signed by the assignee must fully comply with 37 CFR 3.73(b).

Claims 16 is rejected on the ground of nonstatutory obviousness-type double patenting as being unpatentable over claims 1-3, 8, and 11 of U.S. Patent No. 6,779,855. Although the conflicting claims are not identical, they are not patentably distinct from each other because both the patent and instant application teach a drawer with an interlock comprising: an elongated flexible member; a rotatable lever adapted to switch the amount of slack in the flexible member between a low and high slack condition by rotating between a first and second position, respectively, and an actuating member attached to the drawer and positioned to cause the lever to rotate toward the first position when the drawer is initially moved from the closed position. The actuating member would inherently be adapted to translate a first force exerted on the drawer in the first direction to a second force on the flexible member which is less than the first force. The cable is in communication with a lock. Note: since claim 16 is encompassed by the claims in the patent, these claims are also anticipated by and not patentably distinct from the patented claims (regardless of any additional subject matter present in the patented claims ). The patented claims are in effect a "species" of the "generic" invention of claim 16 . It has been held that the generic invention is anticipated by the species. See In re Goodman, 29 USPQ2d 2010 (Fed Cir 1993).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claim 16 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Mitchell (5,176,436). Mitchell teaches a drawer (12) with an interlock (Fig. 1) comprising: an elongated flexible member (34); a rotatable lever (21) adapted to switch the amount of slack in the flexible member between a low and high slack condition by rotating between a first and second position, respectively and an actuating member (27) attached to the drawer and positioned to cause the lever to rotate toward the first position when the drawer is initially moved from the closed position. The actuating member would inherently be adapted to translate a first force exerted on the drawer in the first direction to a second force on the flexible member which is less than the first force. The cable is in communication with a lock (50).
